

FSG Announces Vice President Dean Giordano - Manhattan

"We have a great family in FSG NY Lighting, and I take great pride in the fact that we've created a culture here where employees thrive and prosper." - Dean Giordano

In continuing to lead with a vision of innovative and conscientious practices, FSG is proud to announce Dean Giordano as Vice President of the FSG New York Lighting operation.

With experience at his family's lighting business, Summit Lighting, Dean brings the entrepreneurial spirit and fiscal competence required for the role. He looks forward to continuing to grow the business across New York and the nation.

Dean understands that a willingness to change is pertinent in advancing the business. In a fast-paced, innovative environment such as New York, success comes from hard work and a strong foundation. He says, "New York is a unique environment with both operational and logistical challenges. I look forward to constantly reinventing how we deliver a better project for our clients from cradle-to-grave."

Join us in congratulating Dean on his new role and encouraging him as he continues to light the New York skyline!
